Re: In re Motors Liquidation Company, et al.
Case No. 09-50026 (MG)

Letter Providing Supplemental Authority in Connection with New GM's Motion to Enforce with Respect to the Pitterman Lawsuit

Dear Judge Glenn:

King & Spalding LLP is co-counsel with Kirkland & Ellis LLP for General Motors LLC (“New GM”) in the above-referenced matter. At the hearing on the 2016 Threshold Issues<sup>1</sup> on April 20, 2017 (“April 2017 Hearing”), the Court set for hearing on May 11, 2017 at 2:00 p.m. that portion of New GM’s previous motion to enforce the Sale Order, filed on June 24, 2016 (“Motion to Enforce”) [ECF No. 13655], that concerns the Pitterman lawsuit.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Capitalized terms not otherwise defined herein shall have the meanings ascribed to them in the Order To Show Cause Regarding Certain Issues Arising From Lawsuits With Claims Asserted Against General Motors LLC (“New GM”) That Involve Vehicles Manufactured By General Motors Corporation (“Old GM”), dated December 13, 2016 [ECF No. 13802] and the Glossary of Terms attached thereto as Exhibit “B.”

<sup>2</sup> For the Court’s convenience, the relevant pleadings associated with the Motion to Enforce can be found at (i) ECF Nos. 13655 and 13656 (the Motion to Enforce and Compendium of Exhibits), (ii) ECF No. 13675 (the Opposition to the Motion to Enforce filed by Bernard Pitterman (“Pitterman”), and (iii) ECF No. 13681 (the reply brief by New GM to the objections filed to the Motion to Enforce). If the Court would like hard copies of these pleadings, New GM will promptly provide them.

Honorable Martin Glenn

In Pitterman, the Plaintiff is improperly asserting claims against New GM for failure to recall or retrofit the vehicle (a 2004 Chevrolet Suburban), and a duty to warn as a purported Independent Claim. The Pitterman vehicle was never recalled by Old GM or New GM. The Pitterman Complaint<sup>3</sup> does not allege that New GM ever established a relationship with the Pitterman Plaintiff. Rather, the Pitterman Plaintiff asserts that his product liability claim against New GM is based, in part, on Old GM and New GM taking “no steps to directly notify and/or warn owners or the public of these defects” (Pitterman Complaint, ¶ 26) and that Old GM and New GM “took no steps to recall the vehicle” (id., ¶ 27; see also id., ¶ 28). The Pitterman Complaint seeks compensatory damages but not punitive damages.

A very recent decision by Judge Bernstein arising out of the Old Carco case<sup>4</sup> further supports New GM’s position that the Pitterman claims are barred by the Sale Order. There, Judge Bernstein ruled that the obligations of FCA US LLC (“New Chrysler”) relating to recalls for Old Carco LLC (“Old Carco”) vehicles was limited to complying with the requirements promulgated by the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act (“NTMVSA”). New Chrysler did not assume or take on any other recall-related duties with respect to Old Carco vehicles. Judge Bernstein found that if New Chrysler satisfied its obligations under the NTMVSA and incurred no new recall-related duties, post-sale, to Old Carco vehicle owners, then it would not be liable to Old Carco vehicle owners for a recall-related issue. Judge Bernstein also ruled that Old Carco vehicle owners had no private right of action under the NTMVSA. Id. at *5.<sup>5</sup>

The relevant provisions of the sale order in Old Carco are substantially the same as the Sale Order in the Motors Liquidation Co. case.<sup>6</sup> Thus, the Old Carco ruling supports New GM’s position that it is not liable for any failure to recall the Pitterman vehicle. In the December 2015 Judgment, Judge Gerber ruled that New GM did not assume any duty to recall Old GM vehicles, which is consistent with Old Carco.<sup>7</sup> Indeed, the result reached in Old Carco is even more apt in Pitterman because here there was no recall, no allegation that New GM failed to comply with the NTMVSA, and no allegation that New GM had established a relationship with, let alone owed any new post-sale duty to, the Pitterman Plaintiff.

<sup>3</sup> A copy of the Pitterman Complaint is contained in Exhibit “J” to Schedule “1” attached to the Motion to Enforce.

<sup>5</sup> As support for this proposition, Judge Bernstein cited to Handy v. General Motors Corp., 518 F.2d 786 (9th Cir. 1975); Rosen v. J.M. Auto Inc., No. 07-61234-CIV, 2008 WL 9901501 (S.D. Fla. Mar. 6, 2008); Tires Prods. Liab. Litig. v. Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc., 256 F. Supp. 2d 884 (S.D. Ind. 2003).

<sup>6</sup> Like New GM, “New Chrysler assumed Old Carco’s existing obligations and liabilities in three situations: (1) the repair obligations imposed under the factory warranty and any extended warranties; (2) products liability arising from ‘accidents’; and (3) liabilities under federal and state lemon laws.” Old Carco, 2017 WL 1628888, at *4.

<sup>7</sup> A failure to recall claim based on Old GM actions is expressly barred by paragraph 21 of the December 2015 Judgment, which provides that “[a] duty to recall or retrofit is not an Assumed Liability, and New GM is not responsible for any failures of Old GM to do so.”

Honorable Martin Glenn
May 8, 2017

Likewise, while the Old Carco case did not concern a duty to warn, another decision relating to Old Carco,<sup>8</sup> decided after the November 2015 Decision, supports New GM's argument that it had no independent duty to warn the Pitterman plaintiff after the 363 Sale. In that case, the court found that "knowledge alone is insufficient to establish a duty to warn on the part of FCA to warn Plaintiffs that their vehicles may be affected." Holland, 2015 WL 7196197, at *4. The court held that "Plaintiffs have failed to allege a relationship with FCA which would create a duty on the part of FCA to warn Plaintiffs of the alleged defect...." Id. The same ruling should apply to Pitterman.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth in the Motion to Enforce and New GM's reply, and based on the holdings in the recent Old Carco cases cited above, any purported claim based on a duty to recall or an Independent Claim based on a duty to warn should be stricken.

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ Arthur Steinberg

MEMORANDUM DECISION GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART MOTION TO DISMISS FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT

STUART M. BERNSTEIN United States Bankruptcy
Judge

*1 STUART M. BERNSTEIN United States
Bankruptcy Judge:

The Plaintiffs own vehicles that were manufactured and sold by the debtors, collectively Old Carco LLC (“Old Carco”). After the Defendant FCA US LLC (“New Chrysler”) purchased Old Carco’s assets and continued its operations, New Chrysler recalled the vehicles, attempted to fix a pre-existing glitch, but according to the Plaintiffs, made the situation worse.<sup>1</sup> The Plaintiffs sued, and following the transfer of the lawsuit to this Court, New Chrysler moved to dismiss the Plaintiffs’ complaint arguing that their claims were barred by the sale order discussed below. (FCA US LLC’s Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff’s First Amended Complaint, dated Nov. 18, 2016 (the “Motion”) (ECF Doc. # 12).) For the reasons that follow, the Motion is granted in part and denied in part.

BACKGROUND<sup>2</sup>

On April 30, 2009, Old Carco filed chapter 11 petitions in this Court. Around the same time, Old Carco and New Carco Acquisition LLC, later renamed FCA US LLC (i.e., New Chrysler), entered into a Master Transaction Agreement, dated Apr. 30, 2009 (the “MTA”) (ECF Main/Case Doc. # 3232-1), pursuant to which Old Carco agreed to sell substantially all of their assets free and clear of all liens, claims, interests and encumbrances (other than those expressly assumed) to New Chrysler (the “Sale”). The Court approved the Sale on June 1, 2009, (see Order (I) Authorizing the Sale of Substantially All of the Debtors’ Assets Free and Clear of All Liens, Claims, Interests and Encumbrances, (II) Authorizing the Assumption and Assignment of Certain Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases In Connection Therewith and Related Procedures and (III) Granting Related Relief, dated June 1, 2009 (the “Sale Order”) (ECF/Main Case Doc. # 3232)), and the transaction closed on June 10, 2009.

After the Sale, and on or before July 2013, New Chrysler discovered a defect in certain Jeep vehicles with model years 2005 through 2010 (the “Vehicles”).<sup>3</sup> (FAC at ¶¶ 3, 20.) The defect related to the Final Drive Control Modules (“FDCM”) installed in the Vehicles by Old Carco, causing the Vehicles to shift into neutral unexpectedly and without any driver input. (FAC, Ex. 2 (“Recall Notice”).) As a result, New Chrysler conducted a recall, (the “N23 Recall”), and issued the Recall Notice to the Vehicle owners. (FAC at ¶¶ 20, 24; see also Recall Notice & Ex. 3 (Customer Satisfaction Notification P73).) The Recall Notice characterized the defect as an FDCM software malfunction that caused the Vehicle to shift into neutral without driver input and could cause the Vehicle to roll away while parked resulting in a crash. It stated that “Chrysler will repair your vehicle free of charge (parts and labor). To do this, your dealer will reprogram the Final Drive Control Module.”

A. This Action

*2 On April 1, 2016, the Plaintiffs filed a class action complaint against New Chrysler in the Superior Court of California, County of Orange on behalf of “[a]ll persons in the United States who purchased, own, or sold at a loss, WK Model Vehicles, which have been reprogrammed by [New Chrysler’s] N23 Recall.”<sup>5</sup> (FAC at ¶ 47.) They contend, in substance, that the software update installed by New Chrysler in connection with the N23 Recall caused the “Service 4WD” light to illuminate and disabled certain four wheel drive capabilities. (FAC at ¶¶ 20-38.) The Plaintiffs allege that the Vehicles were manufactured with defect-prone FDCM hardware, (FAC at ¶¶ 21-22), and that New Chrysler issued recall notices to Vehicle owners and performed software updates that disabled certain functions of the Plaintiffs’ vehicles. (FAC at ¶¶ 24-27.) According to the Plaintiffs, the proper course of action would have been to replace the FDCM hardware entirely. (FAC at ¶ 25.) The FAC asserts eleven counts, two of which have since been dismissed by the Plaintiffs.<sup>6</sup> The table below lists the remaining claims:

Count Claim Underlying Assertions New Chrysler disabled certain features of the I Trespass to Chattel Plaintiffs’ vehicles without their consent through the N23 Recall. (FAC at ¶¶ 70-90.) New Chrysler disabled certain features of the II Conversion Plaintiffs’ vehicles without consent through the N23 Recall. (FAC at ¶¶ 91-93.) New Chrysler falsely notified the Plaintiffs that III Fraud it would repair their vehicles free of charge while actually intending to gain access to the vehicles and disable certain features without making actual repairs. (FAC at ¶¶ 94-121.) New Chrysler actively concealed from the Plaintiffs the disabling effect the N23 Recall IV Fraudulent Concealment software update would have on certain features of their vehicles. (FAC at ¶¶ 122-137.) New Chrysler unreasonably failed to test the functionality of the N23 Recall software update Negligent V adequately before representing that the update Misrepresentation would repair the Plaintiffs’ vehicles. (FAC at ¶¶ 138-145.) New Chrysler promised to repair the Plaintiffs’ vehicles, which promise the Plaintiffs VI Promissory Estoppel reasonably relied upon to participate in the N23 Recall, but instead disabled certain features of their vehicles. (FAC at ¶¶ 146-155.) New Chrysler, through ill-gotten gains from the N23 Recall, was able to compete unfairly with Unfair and Deceptive VII other automobile manufacturers and sellers by Business Practices charging lower prices for its goods and services. (FAC at ¶¶ 156-180.) New Chrysler, as a servicer, owed and breached VIII Negligence its duty to repair the Plaintiffs’ vehicles properly. (FAC at ¶¶ 181-194.) Plaintiffs seek a judicial declaration that New Chrysler has not adequately fulfilled its recall Declaratory and XI and other general commitments, and request Injunctive Relief judicial supervision over the recall process. (FAC at ¶¶ 225-231.)

New Chrysler removed the action on April 22, 2016 to the United States District Court for the Central District of California, (Notice of Removal), and moved to dismiss the case, (FCA US LLC’s Notice of Motion and Motion to Dismiss Plaintiffs’ First Amended Class Action Complaint; Memorandum of Points and Authorities in Support, dated May 27, 2016 (ECF Doc. # 1-33)), or alternatively, transfer the case to the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York for reference to this Court. (FCA US LLC’s Notice of Motion and Motion to Transfer; Memorandum of Points and Authorities in Support, dated May 27, 2016 (ECF Doc. # 1-36).) The California District Court denied the motion to dismiss without prejudice, and granted the motion to transfer for the limited purpose of interpreting the Sale Order. (Order Granting Motion to Transfer, at 4 (ECF Doc. # 1-50).) It observed that neither party had cited any authority regarding whether the limitations on liability in the Sale Order applied to “a civil suit for liability stemming from actions taken in response to recall obligations of parts and vehicles manufactured prior to the bankruptcy.” (Id. at 7.) Following the transfer to the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, the matter was referred to this Court pursuant to the Amended Standing Order of Reference, 12 Misc. 00032 (S.D.N.Y. Jan. 31, 2012).

*3 New Chrysler filed the Motion in this Court on November 18, 2016 to dismiss the FAC. The crux of New Chrysler’s argument is that the Plaintiffs’ claims are premised on the existence of a pre-Sale manufacturing defect, and are therefore barred by the Sale Order. Either New Chrysler did not have a duty to fix the defect, or if it did, it fulfilled that. (FCA Brief at 10-13.) New Chrysler claims that its sole responsibility was to comply with 49 U.S.C. §§ 30116 - 30120 of the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act (“NTMVSA”) as enforced by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (“NHTSA”), and according to New Chrysler, the Plaintiffs do not dispute its compliance. (FCA Brief at 1-2, 11, 14.)

In response, the Plaintiffs acknowledge the possible existence of a manufacturing defect in the Vehicles, but deny that the manufacturing defect is a precondition to their claims. (Plaintiffs Lynn Grimstad and Mara Manuel’s Opposition to Defendant FCA US, LLC’s Motion to Dismiss Plaintiffs’ First Amended Complaint & Objection to the Declaration of James Bielenda and Facts In Motion Not In Evidence; Declaration of Sedoo Manu, Esq., dated Dec. 22, 2016 (“Plaintiffs’ Brief”), at 12 (ECF Doc. # 13).) Instead, their claims are solely based on New Chrysler’s independent tortious conduct—not on any regulatory violations or assumed obligations to fix the Vehicles—and would stand irrespective of any manufacturing defect. (Plaintiffs’ Brief at 6, 11-13.) They argue that New Chrysler’s fault lies not in its failure to fix a purported pre-existing defect, but in its disabling of features during the recall that were previously functioning in the Vehicles. (Plaintiffs' Brief at 5.) The recall post-dated the Sale, and the limitations on New Chrysler's liability in the Sale Order and the MTA do not bar the resulting tort claims alleged in the FAC. (Plaintiffs' Brief at 12-16.)

New Chrysler filed a reply reiterating its position that the Plaintiffs' claims are inextricably intertwined with and necessarily premised on a manufacturing defect. (FCA US LLC's Reply In Support of Its Motion to Dismiss Plaintiffs' First Amended Complaint, dated Jan. 17, 2017 ("FCA Reply") (ECF Doc. # 14).) New Chrysler emphasizes that it only conducted the N23 Recall pursuant to its obligations to the NHTSA, and did not undertake any additional duties that would establish an independent relationship with the Plaintiffs. (FCA Reply at 4-5.) Consequently, to the extent the Plaintiffs are dissatisfied with the N23 Recall, New Chrysler contends that their recourse is limited to lodging complaints with the NHTSA. (FCA Reply at 5.)

DISCUSSION

A. Standards Governing the Motion

To state a legally sufficient claim, "a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (citation omitted); accord Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). "A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged." Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678; accord Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556. In deciding the motion, "courts must consider the complaint in its entirety, as well as other sources courts ordinarily examine when ruling on Rule 12(b)(6) motions to dismiss, in particular, documents incorporated into the complaint by reference, and matters of which a court may take judicial notice." Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd., 551 U.S. 308, 322 (2007). A complaint is deemed to include any written instrument attached to it as an exhibit, documents incorporated in it by reference, and other documents "integral" to the complaint. Chambers v. Time Warner, Inc., 282 F.3d 147, 152-53 (2d Cir. 2002) (quotations and citations omitted); accord Int'l Audiotext Network, Inc. v. Am. Tel. & Tel. Co., 62 F.3d 69, 72 (2d Cir. 1995); Cortec Indus., Inc. v. Sum Holding L.P., 949 F.2d 42, 47 (2d Cir. 1991), cert. denied, 503 U.S. 960 (1992).<sup>7</sup>

B. The Limits on New Chrysler's Liability

*4 The Court has previously examined the Sale at length and the extent to which New Chrysler assumed the liabilities of Old Carco notwithstanding the "free and clear" and "no successor liability" provisions in the Sale Order. E.g., Burton v. Chrysler Group, LLC (In re Old Carco LLC), 492 B.R. 392, 396-98 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2013) ("Burton"); Ricks v. New Chrysler Group LLC (In re Old Carco LLC), Adv. Pro. No. 12-09801 (SMB), 2013 WL 1856330, at *2-4 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. May 2, 2013). Except for the Assumed Liabilities under the MTA, and subject to certain additional limitations, New Chrysler assumed Old Carco's existing obligations and liabilities in three situations: (1) the repair obligations imposed under the factory warranty and any extended warranties; (2) products liability arising from "accidents"; and (3) liabilities under federal and state lemon laws. Burton, 492 B.R. at 396-97.

In addition, New Chrysler acknowledged its obligation to comply with the NTMVSA. (Sale Order at ¶ EE.) In particular, it agreed to assume as Assumed Liabilities under the Purchase Agreement and this Sale Order the Debtors' notification, remedy and other obligations under 49 U.S.C. §§ 30116 through 30120 of the NTMVSA relating to vehicles manufactured by the Debtors prior to the Closing Date that have a defect related to motor vehicle safety or do not to comply with applicable motor vehicle safety standards prescribed under the NTMVSA. The Purchaser shall not otherwise be liable for any failure by the Debtors to comply with the provisions of the NTMVSA.

(Id.)

Paragraph EE referred to Old Carco's recall obligations under the NTMVSA. The referenced statutory provisions require New Chrysler, inter alia, to notify owners of Chrysler vehicles that "the vehicle or equipment contains a defect related to motor vehicle safety or does not comply with an applicable motor vehicle safety standard prescribed under this chapter," 49 U.S.C. § 30118(a); see §§ 30118(c), 30119, and remedy the defect or noncompliance by repairing the defect, replacing the vehicle with a comparable vehicle, or refunding an appropriate portion of the purchase price, leaving the choice of the appropriate remedy to New Chrysler. 49 U.S.C. § 30120(a).

In re: OLD CARCO LLC, et al., Debtors. LYNN GRIMSTAD, et..., Slip Copy (2017)

At the outset, the duty to repair the defective FDCM was not an Assumed Liability under the MTA, or within the three exceptions in the Sale Order noted earlier. The Plaintiffs have not relied on any factory or extended warranties, their claims do not arise from “accidents” within the meaning of the Sale Order, and they have not asserted lemon law claims. To the contrary, they contend that their vehicles worked well until New Chrysler executed the N23 Recall. (See Plaintiffs’ Brief at 5 (“Let it be perfectly clear, that Plaintiffs and virtually 99.999% of Jeep owners did not ever have any roll-away issues with their fully functional Jeeps prior to the N23 Recall.”).) Accordingly, they cannot recover from New Chrysler for any defects in their vehicles that existed prior to the Sale, or compel New Chrysler to fix those defects. The only relevant obligations New Chrysler assumed with respect to the pre-existing defect was the duty to remedy the safety defect or noncompliant condition in accordance with the NTMVSA.

Although, the Plaintiffs attempt to draw a bright line between claims based on a pre-existing manufacturing defect that are barred by the Sale Order and post-Sale claims arising from the N23 Recall that they say are not, their pleadings fudge the distinction. The Plaintiffs repeatedly charge that New Chrysler failed to repair a pre-existing defect that made the computer software susceptible to fracturing. The FAC alleges in several places that “[r]ather than replace the affected hardware in the FDCM, or replace the FDCM model itself with a revised model, Defendant opted for a relatively inexpensive option, and it designed, developed, and implemented a software update to upload to the existing, fracture prone, FDCMs.” (FAC at ¶ 25; accord ¶¶ 99, 158.) And the third sentence in their brief sums up their claim in a similar way:

*5 Plaintiffs allege that Defendant recalled class vehicles, and knowingly performed a software patch to disable their four wheel low/lock and transfer case neutral capability, rather than correct a physical susceptibility to fractures in their computers (which could cause an inadvertent roll-away condition).

(Plaintiffs’ Brief at 1 (emphasis added).)

To be clear, New Chrysler did not assume an obligation

under the Sale Order to “replace the FDCM model itself with a revised model,” “correct a physical susceptibility to fractures in their computers,” or more generally, fix the defect, and any such claim is barred by the Sale Order. Instead, New Chrysler assumed obligations under the NTMVSA to remedy safety defects and noncompliant conditions within the purview of that law, and the method of remedying the defect - repair, replace or refund - was within New Chrysler’s sole discretion. The NTMSVA, in this regard, does not give rise to a private right of action. Handy v. General Motors Corp., 518 F.2d 786, 788 (9th Cir. 1975) (“Congress did not intend to create private rights of action in favor of individual purchasers of motor vehicles when it adopted the comprehensive system of regulation to be administered by the NHTSA.”); Rosen v. J.M. Auto Inc., No. 07-61234-CIV, 2008 WL 9901501, at *2 (S.D. Fla. Mar. 6, 2008) (“[T]here is no private right of action under the Safety Act.”); Tires Prods. Liab. Litig. v. Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc. (In re Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc.), 256 F. Supp. 2d 884, 900 (S.D. Ind. 2003) (“[E]very court addressing this issue has held that the Safety Act does not provide a private right of action.”). If New Chrysler satisfied its obligations under the NTMVSA, and undertook no other duties post-Sale, it is not liable to the putative class for the defective FDCM installed by Old Carco.

This does not, however, automatically exonerate New Chrysler from all of the possible consequences of the recall work. For example, if New Chrysler dented, scratched or damaged a Vehicle in the course of the recall, the NTMSVA does not, I would think, protect it from liability. Here, the thrust of the Plaintiffs’ claim is that New Chrysler created a new defect when it disabled the four-wheel drive capabilities of their Vehicles in order to remedy the pre-existing safety defect. The disabling act occurred post-Sale. Furthermore, New Chrysler represented in the Recall Notice that it would “repair the vehicle.” As a result, the owners delivered the Vehicles to New Chrysler to perform the recall work. Whether the “repair” in the Recall Notice referred simply to remedying the safety defect identified therein or implied that the Vehicle would thereafter function as originally intended without the dangerous inadvertent shift to neutral is unclear.

The parties have not addressed whether the disabling of the four-wheel drive capability during the recall as alleged by the Plaintiffs gave rise to an independent claim under non-bankruptcy law, or is barred by the NTMSVA. Moreover, such a question is beyond the scope of the transfer order. I do not mean to suggest that such a claim is cognizable, or that the Plaintiffs, as opposed to the Secretary of Transportation, would have a right to assert it. Rather, I conclude that such a claim, if it exists, is not barred by the Sale Order because the duty, if any, its breach and the resulting damage would have arisen as a result of post-Sale conduct.

*6 Accordingly, the FAC is dismissed to the extent that it alleges that New Chrysler failed to fix a pre-Sale defect in the Vehicles, but is otherwise denied without prejudice to the parties' respective rights to raise the issues discussed above. Because the answers to these questions do not implicate the Sale Order or the Old Carco bankruptcy, I respectfully defer their resolution to the transferor court.

Settle order on notice consistent with this opinion which includes a provision remanding the civil action to the transferor court.
